EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION AS A CAREER

Grays Harbor College offers skill development training for working professionals in the childcare and daycare industry in its ONLINE Early Childhood Education Certificate of Achievement program. This 20-credit program includes STARS training and other important continuing education skill programs for working childcare professionals.

Program Description

This program is designed to give students an opportunity to gain skills that are necessary to work appropriately with children from birth to age eight in a variety of school and community settings. Historical and theoretical knowledge, combined with practical experience, will offer students a realistic view of the families they will be working with. A strong emphasis in developmentally appropriate practice is incorporated in all aspects of the course content, which will afford students the ability to create a healthy environment and curriculum for young children. Gender, culture, and special needs will be integrated throughout the coursework so students can grow personally, identify their own values, and become sensitive to all children and families.

State ECE Endorsement

Although not required to receive this Certificate of Achievement, ECE 101, Introduction to Early Childhood Education meets a requirement for State of Washington ECE endorsement.

Salary Expectations

COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

ECE 101 2 Credits
Introduction to Childcare
 This course provides a foundation for learning within the first six months of employment in the ECE field and covers these basics: optimal child growth and development, child guidance and health and safety in ECE settings. 2 lecture hours. May be used as a general elective in the AA degree.

EDUC& 114 (formerly ECE 102) 3 Credits
Child Development
 Child Growth and Development from birth to age six including the physical, emotional, cultural, cognitive and creative age-related changes with a focus on the development of a sense of self. 3 lecture hours. May be used as a general elective in the AA degree.

ECE 103 3 Credits
Guiding the Behavior of Young Children
Prerequisite: ECE 102.
 Our environment and our interactions with each other impact our lives from the time we are born until we die. Becoming aware, understanding and applying the foundational elements of guidance will not only impact our relationships with young children but with all people whom we come in contact with throughout our lives. This course explores the observation of human behavior and the interpretations of meaning. We will examine issues of cultural relevancy, impacts of oppression, personal history, and preferences surrounding our approach to guidance. Additionally, we will attempt to discover possible responses to varying perceived situations by becoming aware of how our values impact relationships and inform our work with young children. 3 lecture hours. May be used as a general elective in the AA degree.

ECE 111 3 Credits
Methods of Curriculum Care
 Curriculum development is designed to introduce students to the elements of planning. Emphasis is on integrating a variety of methods, materials, and activities into curriculum plans meeting the needs of young children. 3 lecture hours. May be used as a general elective in the AA degree.

ECE 112 3 Credits
Health, Nutrition and Safety for Young Children
 This course helps students understand factors contributing to the health of young children. It assists students' development of skills necessary to promote health, safety and good nutrition in ECE environments. 3 lecture hours. May be used as a general elective in the AA degree.

ECE 113 3 Credits
Family Dynamics and Culture
 ECE teachers understand families as the primary context of child learning and development. This course teaches students to understand, respect and deal with the diversity in family structure and values as they impact the professional ECE environment. The course considers issues and social impacts which can affect child behavior and learning in an ECE environment. 3 lecture hours. May be used as a general elective in the AA degree.

ECE 114 3 Credits
Issues and Trends in ECE
 This course helps students explore, understand and analyze issues and challenges in ECE as they affect the education and care needs of preschool age children. The course will survey the scope, depth and breadth of the field as these issues impact teaching and care giving for young children in an ECE environment. 3 lecture hours. May be used as a general elective in the AA degree.
